Basic Creations Pty Ltd

When it comes to reducing power consumption, lower power bills are not the only benefit. Reducing power consumption will also help the environment by reducing CO2 emissions which contribute to global warming!
CURTAIN MANUFACTURING 40% - 45% TRADE (Approx.) Products are available nationally (freight must be paid in cash and is buyer's responsibility)

Some interesting facts...

- A 1 degree fall in temperature in your home adds 10% to your heating bill!
- Proper window coverings such as heavy drapes can preserve up to 20% of total heat!
- Closely woven, close fitting curtains are a very effective way of protecting windows from heat loss at night.
- A snug fit on both sides of the window and at the top of the curtain stops warm air from moving down behind the curtain and cooling.
- Boxed pelmets or solid strips above the curtain rail are essential.

What is a pelmet?

A device closing the top of a curtain, which prevents warm air around the back of the curtain, thus reducing heat loss; also creates a still airspace between the glass and the curtain.

Local and State Governments are now recognising the benefits of curtains in the home and are recommending the installation of curtains with pelmets in new homes in order to acquire the optimal 'energy rating'.
